IPHCA and Quest Diagnostics Collaborate to Advance Health Care Across Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 2, 2023 – Today, the Illinois Primary Health Care Association (IPHCA) proudly announces that Quest Diagnostics (NYSE: DGX) has committed to a three-year sponsorship aimed to advance healthcare in Illinois. This is the first collaboration of its kind for the association.

IPHCA's member organizations, which total 53 Federally Qualified Health Centers (FQHC), provide services to more than 1.5 million people across Illinois. From primary care for all ages, to dental and behavioral health care, these health centers are on the front lines of providing quality health services to those who need it most.

Throughout the next three years, Quest will support IPHCA's membership by providing capital for various events throughout the year. Additionally, Quest will produce education programs for medical directors and clinical staff. And finally, Quest will offer donated laboratory services for uninsured patients that could help determine if someone has a chronic condition/disease, such as diabetes.

"Improving patients' lives and health outcomes is our mission," said Ollie Idowu, President and CEO at IPHCA. "By working with Quest, our members will have new resources available to their organizations that will help advance patient care."

"Quest looks forward to its sponsorship with IPHCA and working to improve the lives of patients served through member organizations. Further, we look forward to supporting the realization of IPHCA's future vision" said Matthew J. Hamlin, FACHE, Vice President and General Manager, Greater Midwest Region, Quest Diagnostics.
